

Introducing the ACMP Change Management Standards

Association of Change Management Professionals (ACMP) Standard for Change Management© (“Standard©”) is a collection of generally accepted practices in change management and is one of the foundational elements in advancing the change management profession and discipline. Released in September 2014, the Standard© provides the foundation for the Certified Change Management Professional™ (CCMP) credential, the Qualified Education Provider™ (QEP) Program, and empowers change practitioners to lead the way change works.

Introduction - 1 day

jTask Change Management Training is based on the open and free ACMP Standard for Change Management® (ACMP Standard or the Standard) This one day introduction showcases the 5 elements of the Change Management Standards. In this one day overview, we focus on:

- Session 1 – Change Management Process Overview
- Session 2 - Change Impact and Organization Readiness
- Session 3 – Strategy and Plan
- Session 4 – Execution of Plan and Completion of Effort

How the Standard Advances the Profession

Standard for Change Management© advances the profession by establishing a common understanding of the discipline of change management to help leaders and practitioners achieve and sustain change objectives.

The clear and consistent definitions of change management terminology help professionals establish themselves as global leaders of change. Certified Change Management Professional The Certified Change Management Professional (CCMP) is a global professional credential developed based on the Standard©.

ACMP's Standard is Method Neutral and Includes:

- A definition of practices, processes, tasks and activities for Change Management without tools or templates
- Guidance for organizational change management, for any type of change
- Generally accepted practices and processes used by practitioners across industries, organizations and roles
